

OVERCOMING THE AUDITING SKILLS GAP

WITH CERTIFIED INTERNAL AUDITOR (CIA)
CERTIFICATION FOR YOUR EMPLOYEES.

What Is a CIA?

A Certified Internal Auditor is a globally recognized professional in internal audit and compliance for government agencies, financial institutions, and corporations. They are the auditing experts and act as trusted advisors.

What Does a CIA Do?

CIA's review financial records to look for deficiencies in internal controls. They are assets to any organization, but they are most impactful to those that must comply with stringent laws, rules, or regulations, especially in large, complex entities. Generally, CIA's:

- ➔ Audit financial reports
- ➔ Analyze operations
- ➔ Assess and manage risks
- ➔ Recommend controls
- ➔ Prevent theft, loss, and fraud

The Benefits of Training a CIA

Efficient organizations run leaner. Organizations across the globe are relying on their internal audit teams now more than ever for their risk-based and objective assurance, advice, and insight to avoid and catch costly mistakes. The up-front expense incurred by professionally certifying your employees is quickly offset by lower operating costs.

According to a survey of 486 Chief Audit Executives conducted by The Institute of Internal Auditors (The IIA), 39% of respondents expect to increase their use of agile auditing techniques, and nearly half expect to increase their use of data analytics.

The CIA certification is an efficient, respected way to upskill your employees to meet the evolving demands of today's businesses.

According to Robert Half, the CIA is currently one of the most in-demand accounting certifications in the world.
